

About Us

In 1978, Robert Marder and Irving Seidler worked as Cook County Public Defenders when they decided to combine their trial skills. They opened a law office in Schaumburg, Illinois and began a private practice. Since then, they have continually worked to provide quality legal services to the community at reasonable costs. Whether it involves a trial of a criminal or civil case, a divorce or a real estate closing, they have managed to survive the test of time. They often joke about serving a second generation. From a complicated litigation to a simple traffic ticket, you will find a comfortable level of personal service, reasonable fees and a 24/7 availability for emergency matters. Please call immediately for a no cost consultation.
